Robert yes the registration date of the regulatory amendment will be the effective date of the amendment. As to your question on comments, I am sure you are aware that not all stakeholders see the issue from the same perspective and that we have received many different points of view. I assure you we are working on all the issues that have been brought forward and that we will continue to work on the comments that we receive over the weekend. At this point I am not able to share these issues. As I noted earlier I cannot provide you any additional information on timing.

Dan, thank-you for your prompt reply, we appreciate the effort everyone is expending to resolve this issue.

We would like to thank you for your understanding of the frustrations and anxiety faced by over 2000 Canadians and their immediate families.

Is the registration date, when the modification goes into affect?

Over the course of the last few days, has anything popped up that would prevent the registration date from being delayed until after the holidays?

If so, we would like to inform our members do they may make alternate plans for the holidays?

Thank-you for your time.

Robert The comment period of 15 days ends on the weekend as the publication date was December 1, 2007. I know that this does not seem reasonable, but the regulatory process must be respected. I am not sure if you are aware, but our regulatory comment period is 75 days on our vehicle safety regulatory amendments, thus you can see that we consider this issue to be of paramount importance.

I am and will be unable to provide you with any further information on the amendment until the registration date as regulatory amendments are confidential at this stage. I will tell you that all of us are working as fast as possible to introduce this regulation as soon as possible after the close of comment period and the approval and processing of the documents.

We are doing all we can to help everyone but please be patient for a bit longer.

Dan

Would you be so kind as to provide us with an update?

We understand that the 15 day period over today.

We also understand that many people that might have to approve and signoff on this modification are leaving Ottawa for the holidays.

We have over two thousand Canadians expecting an announcement on Monday. May we have a heads up sometime today?

The RIV seems to be proactively calling Canadians in order to prepare for a mass approval on Wednesday, the 19th of December, is this true?

On Friday Dec 21st, many of our members are planning to leave for either Florida, or visit with relatives all across the country. What should they do?

Thank-you for your time.
